

42 DAILY NEWS Friday, November 16, 1990

EXTRA

Hey, Adam...er, Alec, it's a snake!

FROM YONDER HOLLYWOOD WAY, friends of Alec Baldwin and Kim Basinger report the actress is sporting a significant ring on one of her pretty fingers. A little love fest during the holidays wouldn't hurt, would it?

Baldwin and Basinger, whose film "The Marrying Man" hits movie houses early next year, are spending time at his ranch outside L.A. It was there Baldwin reportedly picked up a broom and killed a rattlesnake that slithered too close to Basinger recently. You know it's real love — and here to stay — when your significant other doesn't jump into the grass at the sighting of the first snake coming between you.

★★★★
New York... ..

Hither-and-dither: Art dealer Mary Boone is hosting a drinks party at her East Side aerie tonight for Eric Fischl. An exhibit of Fischl's latest works opens tomorrow at Boone's gallery at 417 West Broadway.

New York's next generation of star fashion designers, including Randolph Duke and Jamie Herzlinger, are off tonight to a networking party at Rex, 579 Sixth Ave., during the cocktail hour. The designers want to band together and generate some good cheer in their business.

On Sunday, Margaret Tyzack, star of Broadway's "Lettice & Lovage," Jean Marsh and Sylvia Miles will act as celebrity ushers at the Remy Martin "City Mosaic Evening of Extra Perfection — Broadway Showstoppers." This benefit at the French Institute's Florence Gould Hall is for the charitable organizations Miracle House, New York Pride and Broadway Cares.

Among those performing are Betty Buckley, Chita Rivera, Liliane Montevecchi, Georgia Brown, Alexis Smith, and Julie Wilson.

Come Tuesday, Garrison Keillor will be the featured speaker at the Salvation Army's Kettle Kick-Off fund-raiser at the corner of 60th St. and Fifth Ave. from 12:30 to 1 p.m. Keillor will read one of his monologues, and Charles Osgood, of CBS News, will read a poem he penned. Choral groups for various Salvation Army centers will sing holiday favorites. The Salvation Army hopes to raise $4.6 million this season, $1.2 million from donations into the red kettles.

UNIVERSAL STUDIOS FLORIDA