

Keillor brings 'Prairie Home,' fireworks to Majestic Theatre

BY SANDRA F. SCOTT
Fort Worth Star-Telegram

Garrison Keillor, the creator of the little town of Lake Wobegon in A Prairie Home Companion, performed his show live before a sold-out audience at the Majestic Theatre last night.

His show aired on National Public Radio for 13 years before ending in 1987.

Keillor and other regular Prairie Home guest stars as well as a surprise guest, country singer Emmy Lou Harris, performed for more than three hours and ended with a splash of fireworks over the little Midwestern clap-

Review: Variety

Garrison Keillor

Last night: The 3rd Annual Farewell Tour and Performance, Majestic Theatre, Dallas

board house on the stage.

Keillor came on just before 8 to make the crowd aware that they were being videotaped for The Disney Channel and home videocassettes, a last-minute change from the scheduled taping in Los Angeles at the end of the Third Annual Farewell Tour.