

DEATHS ELSEWHERE

■ Dorothy Handford, 71, whose baking inspired broadcaster Garrison Keillor to create the fictional Chatterbox Cafe, died Thursday of cancer in St. Paul, Minn. Ms. Handford, a longtime employee of Minnesota Public Radio, was talking with Keillor, the host of "A Prairie Home Companion," in 1982 when he sampled one of her homemade rolls.

Keillor went back on the air and told listeners he was enjoying a cinnamon roll at Dorothy's Chatterbox Cafe. The eatery went on to become a regular feature when Keillor talked about his fictional hometown of Lake Wobegon.

■ Dame Lucie Rie, 93, one of the
